Observation of International Mother Language Day

International Mother Language Day is celebrated annually on February 21st to promote linguistic diversity and multilingual education worldwide. The day commemorates the sacrifices of students in Bangladesh in 1952, who fought for the recognition of their mother language, Bangla. This observance emphasizes the importance of preserving and protecting native languages as a fundamental part of cultural heritage and identity. Such initiatives help in fostering respect for all languages and cultures, contributing to a more inclusive and harmonious society. The Centre for Tagore Studies, in collaboration with Departments of Bengali, English and Sanskrit observed International Mother Language Day this year. A seminar was arranged on 'Bhasha, Bibidhata O Bhratiyatwa' (Language, Diversity and Indianness). Prof. Diksha Tamang and Prof. Apurba Barman discussed about their mother tongue Nepali and Rajbanshi respectively. The coordinator of the Centre for Tagore Studies, Dr. Manju Saha, remembered the language movement of the Santhals. Prof. Saranya Sen, Convener of the Academic Council, emphasized on the importance of resistance against linguistic aggression and hierarchy.
